

THE HICKMAN COURIER.

HICKMAN, KY.,

FRIDAY, 1:1:1 JAN. 10, 1880.

FOR CLERK COURT OF APPEAL.

We are authorized to announce Mr. JAS. R. MARTIN, of Clermont county, as a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce THOMAS G. FORD, of Hickman county, as a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Mr. ED. J. MARTIN, as a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, subject to the action of the Democratic State Convention.

To Our Patrons.

Because of contemplated changes in the business management of the COURIER, all persons indebted to us for subscription, advertising or job printing, are respectfully requested to make settlement of the same by the first of March, as it is imperative that outstanding balances be closed at once. After that date we may hold claims against the COURIER will present them for payment.

The 119 counties in the State, 76 draw from the treasury more money than they pay in taxes.

State Auditor J. E. BROWN is the only man in the United States who really deserves Senator Jo Blackburn's re-election.

This election for U. S. Senator, Public Printer &c., being now disposed of, the Kentucky legislature can get square down to work.

The veteran Congressman, Judge Kelley, is said to be dangerously ill with cancer. He was born in 1811 and has been a member of the House for over twenty-eight years.

Tag Ballard county Wheel nominated their ticket for the election next August. It stands as follows: Samuel Sharpe, county Judge; B. P. Brown, county attorney; John D. Anderson, county recorder; Clark H. Cupton, sheriff; G. W. Willis, superintendent of schools; James McRae, auditor; and J. W. Overton, county clerk; J. W. Wickford, surveyor.

Ex-Confederate soldiers, who in New Orleans have organized an organization of colored G. A. R. Posts. The same men organized Capt. Gray, Department of Louisiana, and Capt. Johnson, of the colored guard, in the funeral of Jefferson Davis, and the Captain has caught even with the patriots of the South. They are black, who have organized a division of Gen. Allen's Grand Army.

Says the Courier Journal: Capt. H. C. Bartlett, of New Orleans, Adjutant-General of the grand Army of the Republic, has received a telegram which says that it would be necessary for him to sign the charter of the colored post recently organized in New Orleans, and according to the telegraph, he will do so at the earliest opportunity.

It is also reported that the Hon. Bill Chandler, with a cohort or two of those Northern champions of the negro were putting down the negroes in New Orleans, against the blacks in the ranks of the Republican G. A. R.

The Democratic legislative caucus at Frankfort was large and harmonious. Judge Lindsey nominated Senator Blackburn for reelection, and the nomination was unanimously approved, after which Mr. Blackburn acknowledged the adoption of the speech of Mr. Public Printer. Col. John Johnson, the present incumbent, who had no opposition, was chosen without a contest. Thus we find that the negroes are to find little in the public service; may future Legislatures have no little trouble in finding a good road.

An exchange tersely sums up in the following a needed amendment to the tariff bill, introduced by Mr. Cox: "It needs to be changed sufficiently to allow the United States officers to go over to the negroes, and bring fugitives when he has his pockets bulging out with over $600,000 of greenbacks. Existing treaties should have a stipulation to this effect. It ought not to be a matter of moment whether the statesmen who was somebody's pocket-book drawer burglar-proof safe."

Senator Isabelle has declared himself in favor of a law exempting the children of Union veterans from examinations under the civil service law as a means of securing the former's return. This is one step beyond this to take, as we might as well take it if we are to meet the present situation. All descendants of Union veterans from the necessity of earning a living. The Republican party is determined to make an honorary class of some sort in this country, and we should be glad to have the party show its full hand before 1892.

PHILADELPHIA Record: "Nothing has occurred in this country for many years that so clearly evinces the inner rottenness of the Republican press as its failure to rebuke the rascally scheme developed by the Southern Legislatives of that State over to members who were elected as Democrats. There is no party that does not virtue enough to resent such an attempt to defraud the election. The game played by the Republicans, but it involves a dishonor in the winning that will be more costly in the end than a hundred Republican defeats."

Electing the Delegate.

The suggestion made in the COURIER of Dec. 21, looking to an early primary election to elect a delegate to represent Hickman and Fulton counties in the Constitutional Convention, probably to assemble in October next, has met the approval of a number of citizens, but the Democratic party, we doubt, waiting until the voting, and to acquiesce more fully with the will of the people on the proposition. The COURIER believes that an early primary will meet with some objections, and that faults will develop, but possibly not so many and of less serious nature than pertains to the heretofore custom of deferring organization methods until immediately after an election. We believe that the advice and personalities are at fever heat. For many years a large number have favored early primaries, and we want to see it tried.

Buckner and Law.

A revision of the road laws of this State receives a great impetus in the suggestions of Gov. Buckner, and the Legislature.

Former Governor Buckner has moved over this great need in silence, and office-hunting politicians have fought shy of commitment, but Governor Buckner has placed his record in favor of an equitable road tax. As the largest tax-payer as well as the Chief-Executive, his recommendations will have much weight in the Legislature and the people. The plan he suggests embraces:

1st. The non-property owner must contribute of his labor to improve the roads.

2nd. The landed proprietor, the merchant and the manufacturer, who are more largely benefited, should contribute not only of their labor, but of their wealth.

3rd. The railroads, steamship companies, and the needs of commercial intercourse, alike demand a revision of the road laws of the State.

Lowest Tax on 30 Years.

R. G. Dunn & Co's REVIEW, discussing the general business situation and prospects says:

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The New York Sun is a Democratic paper, but was weak enough in its party allegiance to support Ben Butler against Cleveland, well knowing and desiring thereby that the election of Butler would have given him an opportunity to do what he could for the negro.

The New York Sun is a Democratic paper, but was weak enough in its party allegiance to support Ben Butler against Cleveland, well knowing and desiring thereby that the election of Butler would have given him an opportunity to do what he could for the negro.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January 1 to January 1, 1880, was about 4 per cent., and the rate of decline is greater than in any previous January for thirty years. The average for 1880 was 4.2 per cent. below that of 1888. That the average price of farm products in the United States should be lower than any January for 30 years appears to be a fact, and the cause that probably accounts for it is a general demand for foreign grain.

The decline in prices of all commodities from January

ADVERTISING RATES.

The Courier Job Office, 1000 words, $1.00 per column per week.
Illustrations, $1.00 per column per week.
Classified advertisements 10 cents per word, 100 words minimum.
For special position, or for old-established advertising, rates will be made to suit the advertiser's requirements, and tributes of respect will be charged for at the rate of 10 cents per word, less than 100 words, and 10 cents per word, maximum, contained, 10 cents per line each week.

Look at This!

If you want Pictures,
If you want Engravings,
If you want Illustrations,
If you want Manuscripts,
If you want Note Books,
If you want Books,
If you want Writing Cases,
If you want Shipping Cases,
If you want Job PRINTING of any description,
If you want your business cards printed,
If you want your name cards printed,
If you want your business cards printed,
Courier Job Office.

S. K. DAVIDSON,

DENTIST.

(Office over Coughlin's Drug Store).

Hickman, Kentucky.

LOCAL NEWS.

—Call, I will do you good den-ter, YOKELAY.

—Ed. J. H. Routhie, will preach in Simon's schoolhouse Sunday, Jan.

18th.

—The wheat crop is so luxuriant that farmers consider the greatest appeal to the market.

—Mrs. Annie Ellison and daughter, Miss Matie, are about for a winter

visit to Atlanta, Ga.

—Miss Georgia Launder, returned home from a winter visit to Nashville, Tenn.

—Miss Katie Klingman left Monday for a six weeks' visit to her brother, C. L., in New York City.

—The Hickman Post office has moved into the brick house known as the Post house.

It is a more better and satisfactory location.

—Hickory Eyes is the place to have your eyes tested and fitted to the best Prescription Glasses.

—Mr. Kou Little and sister, Miss

Made Little, and Miss Beulah, King, of Decatur, Ga., recently visited society

friends in Hickman.

—The damage suit of Head vs.

Stevens, of Hickman, was filed in the State Court, by his attorney, for $100,

both sides being citizens of Fulton.

—Misses Light and May Faris,

daughter of Mr. A. F. Faris, the Sunday night at street, Mrs. Faris, for young ladies, new Nashville, Tenn.

—Try Dr. Yokelay's painless method of extracting teeth. Of course over 1000 teeth.

—Our Senator Kemp, serves on the following Senator Committees:

Literature and Public Libraries, Printing,

Postmaster, and is chairman of the first named.

—Mr. Senator Roberts, who has been a man to be a favorite, has arrived in town, and is liked by all.

—Even over here, he is liked by all.

—The County superintendents of tax were in town Saturday evening last days of this week. The Board this year appropriated $2,000,000.00 for the County Auditor, and the Auditor

Nichols.

—Mr. W.H. Fortune, well known in town, and liked by all.

—Even over here, he is liked by all.

—The farmers of the Purchase

claim that they are out of the park question. Those who killed during the winter, and those who did not could be cured and the hogs of these who did not kill are dying with the others.

—Capt. A. M. McGowen, of Mayville, was in town Saturday evening

and was seen in the Capital Hotel.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

the mild winter a few cold days.

—The鸿骨 has downed

the signal service this winter as a proper

part of the winter's work.

dictated a severe and stormy season, while

